1. Spatial distribution of social housing as a result of the urban context, complemented by the incorporation of the Church of Els Quatre Ausiliadors (El Socarrat). This church is located at the heart of the neighborhood, providing a strong sense of coherence for the area.

2. The consolidation of the social housing as a block, fragmented on the streets, is based on the preservation of existing structures and the addition of new social housing within their boundaries. This approach aims to maintain the historical fabric of the neighborhood while integrating new social housing.

3. The social housing is characterized by the integration of existing structures and the addition of new buildings. This approach ensures the preservation of historical context while providing new social housing.

4. The spatial distribution of the social housing is based on the existing streets and the preservation of historical structures. This approach aims to maintain the historical fabric of the neighborhood while integrating new social housing.

5. The social housing is characterized by the integration of existing structures and the addition of new buildings. This approach ensures the preservation of historical context while providing new social housing.

6. The spatial distribution of the social housing is based on the existing streets and the preservation of historical structures. This approach aims to maintain the historical fabric of the neighborhood while integrating new social housing.

7. The social housing is characterized by the integration of existing structures and the addition of new buildings. This approach ensures the preservation of historical context while providing new social housing.

8. The spatial distribution of the social housing is based on the existing streets and the preservation of historical structures. This approach aims to maintain the historical fabric of the neighborhood while integrating new social housing.

9. The social housing is characterized by the integration of existing structures and the addition of new buildings. This approach ensures the preservation of historical context while providing new social housing.