This Project has the objective of analyzing the nowadays Barcelona Airport, and shows one of the development possibilities it has. Specially, the selectionated strategy foresees the creation of a new satellite terminal between runways, thanked to that, the airport will be capable of center all the airplane operations on this area of the airport.

The definition of this satellite terminal will be done helped by different studies, as much as statistics ones, or comparatives ones, with the objective of archive a conclusion which adapt with the future Barcelona Airport in a properly way.