

The designed acquisition system allows the monitoring of volcanic seismic signals. The system consists of a custom electronic board, batteries and seismic sensors. Recorded data are stored in a SD memory and are sent with a radio frequency module. SM6 sensor is conditioned as broadband seismic sensor with electronic components. A field test with the designed equipment has been carried out in a volcanic zone.